HOUSE ALIEN CLAUSE STANDS

Conference Report on Immigration Bill Before Solons.

EXCLUSION EFFECTIVE JULY 1

Proposal of President Coolidge Regarding Negotiations With Japan Is Eliminated From Report—McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Measure to Be Considered During the Present Session of Congress.

Washington, May 12.—The report of the conferees on the immigration bill, carrying the Japanese exclusion provisions, will be taken up by the house tomorrow, and afterwards it will go to the senate.

An agreement was reached in conference to make the exclusion section effective July 1, 1924. It eliminates completely the proposal of President Coolidge that this government endeavor to negotiate the abrogation of the gentlemen's agreement prior to the effective date of exclusion. As approved by the conference committee, the section prohibiting admission of "aliens ineligible to citizenship" stands as it came originally from the house. The senate version would have made the section applicable upon enactment of the bill.

President Coolidge is not likely to take any further step to influence the solons. Whether the measure in its present shape will be approved by the president is problematical.

A vote is to be taken during the present session on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. A promise of consideration was given in the face of a threat by Senator Norbeck, Republican of South Dakota, to force a vote on the bill in the senate by offering it as an amendment to the revenue bill. Norbeck was assured by senate leaders that no obstacle would be placed in the way of a vote on the measure. Chairman Snell of the house rules committee, following a conference with President Coolidge, announced that the bill would be given right of way. It was stated, however, that the president had given no indication as to his views on the measure.

The McNary-Haugen bill would create a $200,000,000 corporation to purchase the principal American farm crops at a ratio derived from an average price existing from 1905 to 1914. The corporation would sell the products to the export trade at not less than the ratio price and to the domestic trade when deemed advisable, but not for less than the purchase price. The corporation would have power to borrow funds up to five times the capitalization.

An appropriation bill carrying about $68,000,000 for expenses of the departments of state, justice, commerce and labor, was passed by the senate.

PROBING MINE DISASTER

Several Witnesses Examined in the Inquiry at Benwood.

Benwood, W. Va., May 12.—An inquiry into the mine disaster of April 28, when 115 men perished, was opened here by the state bureau of mines, directed by Chief R. M. Lambie of Charleston. Prosecuting Attorney Lloyd Arnold of Marshall county, and Coroner J. T. McCombs. Several witnesses were questioned, including Jerome T. Pyles, one of the fire bosses, who told of conditions in the mine prior to the blast. He found some dust, but not sufficient as to be regarded as dangerous. Two supply men also told of being in the mine Sunday with an open carbide lamp and finding no dangerous condition. Mine Superintendent George W. Gehres declared the mine was not a dangerous one and showed the book signed by the fire bosses.

Charged With Theft.

Detroit, May 12.—Jean Francis Guinn, arrested here with his bride of two days, waived extradition proceedings when two detectives arrived here to return him to Omaha, Neb., where he is to face a charge of stealing $6,000 from an Omaha trust company. His bride, formerly of Terre Haute, Ind., has announced her determination to have their marriage annulled.

Blew Himself Up.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 12.—Peter Van Nest, 72, committee suicide by blowing himself to pieces with blasting power in a bedroom of his home here. The explosion rocked houses and shattered windows in the vicinity.

URGES BILL'S VETO

Secretary Mellon Returns Bonus Measure to the President.

Washington, May 12.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon returned the soldier bonus bill to the white house with the recommendation that it be vetoed by President Coolidge. Mellon's position was that tax reduction would be impossible this year if the bonus bill becomes a law. The report of the treasury department, it was learned, declared the bonus would cost the nation $6,700,000,000 over a 50-year period, $3,700,000,000 to be expended in meeting cash payments on the insurance policies, and the remainder for interest and administrative expenses. The bill was passed recently by congress. It provides insurance policies for the veterans.

The controversy over the status of the Isle of Pines was definitely settled when Secretary Hughes made the announcement that the islands were as much Cuban territory as Long Island was New York territory.

Coroner Probes Deaths.

Indianapolis, May 12.—After a preliminary investigation into the deaths of Mrs. Beulah Palmer, 45, and Albert Cage, 55, a farmer living near Union City, Ind., Coroner Baddes expressed the opinion it was a case of murder and suicide. Dr. Baddes, after interviewing neighbors of Cage, said he thought the man shot Mrs. Palmer during a period of anger. Neighbors said that the woman was shot three times by Cage, for whom she was formerly housekeeper. The shooting took place at the home of Cage when Mrs. Palmer called at the house for her belongings.

RESOLUTIONS ARE TAKEN UP

Methodist Conference to Pass Upon Many Subjects.

SEEKS DEFEAT OF BEER BILLS

Conference Would Admit All Peoples to This Country and Citizenship, Regardless of Race or Color—Civil Service Status For Prohibition Officers and Creation of Enforcement Bureau Favored.

Springfield, Mass., May 12.—The Methodist Episcopal Conference this week will pass upon a number of memorials and resolutions reported by committees.

The following resolutions have been adopted: For the admission of peoples to this country and to citizenship regardless of race, color or nationality; for a committee to present to congress the conference's attitude toward the Dyer anti-lynching bill; for defeat of the "beer bills" now before congress, the deportation of aliens twice convicted for prohibition or narcotic law violations, a civil service status for prohibition officers and the creation of a federal enforcement bureau; for a message of greeting and sympathy to the widow of President Harding; for further co-operation with the near east relief, and for preservation of the rights of Pueblo Indians to their hereditary lands in New Mexico.

A resolution calling for the appointment of a special committee to protest to the platform framers of each major party against the insertion of wet planks in either platform was referred to a committee. Also to a committee went a request for legislation from every state against the sale and use of cigarettes or tobacco. A resolution urging church leaders to encourage church attendance by children went to the board of Sunday schools for consideration and report.

The national council of the Congregational church sent its greetings by its executive secretary and the Holy Synod of Russia, in a cablegram, gave its fraternal greetings and expressed the thanks for the services of the Methodist church in that country.

President Coolidge sent a message to the conference, saying: "I am glad to express to the general conference my cordial sympathy with the work carried on by the board of conference claimants for pensioning retired preachers, their widows and orphan children. The churches of America have rendered generous aid to distressed humanity in every part of the world, and I am sure that it needs no word of mine to call attention to the quiet and unselfish devotion of the ministers of the church, often under difficult circumstances and in the face of real privation. The work which you are doing is one which must enlist the sympathetic interest of all."

MARTIN'S AIRPLANE TOTALLY WRECKED

Missing Aviator and His Mechanic Safe in Alaska.

Washington, May 12.—The army air service received word that Major Fred L. Martin, missing round-the-world flyer, is safe at Port Moller, Alaska, 200 miles west of Chignik.

Major Martin and his mechanic, Sergeant A. L. Harvey, escaped injury when their plane was wrecked after striking a mountain peak in a fog on April 30.

Radio messages say the aviators reached a trapper's cabin on Port Moller half an hour later. They were rescued May 10. Major Martin had flown to Chignik April 25 from Kanatka. This journey of 150 miles was made in a storm.

The three remaining planes of the expedition, under command of Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, reached Attu island, Aleutian islands, and are awaiting a favorable moment to make the jump of 878 miles across the Bering sea to Paramashire island in the Kries, at the north end of the Japanese empire.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Justice of Peace Sued.

Cleveland, May 12.—Asking that Justice of the Peace G. W. Vocke of Brooklyn township and three deputies be enjoined from imprisoning him for failure to pay a $119 fine assessed for possession of liquor, suit was filed in common pleas court by Joseph Pelone, who alleges that deputies from Vocke's court entered his home and confiscated a quantity of grape juice which, he says, he manufactured for his own use. He claims he had no trial and the fine was assessed after a "conversation."

Two Fatally Shot in Raid.

Cadiz, O., May 12.—In a raid at the home of Frank Marcenik, at Bentonwood, Deputy Forest Sparrow of New Athens was killed and Marshal John Dean fatally wounded. Marcenik is in jail here. When Marcenik refused to admit the raiders they battered the door down. The shooting followed. Marcenik said he thought the raiders were robbers. He claims to have been robbed of $700 recently. No liquor was found in Marcenik's home.

Small Boy Found.

Cleveland, May 12.—Henry Peters, a 3-year-old boy, who disappeared three weeks ago while his parents were at work, was located in Ashville, N. C. An 18-year-old girl, who is alleged to have taken the child, was arrested there. County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton said he will ask the grand jury to indict the girl for kidnapping.

Cox Suits Dismissed.

Cincinnati, May 12.—Two suits filed by Alfred Cox and Clara N. Etting of Philadelphia, brother and niece of the late Hamilton county politician, George B. Cox, were dismissed in common pleas court. The plaintiffs had demanded an accounting of the estate of the late politician. The court held that they had no claim.

Woman Fatally Burned.

Newark, O., May 12.—Miss Minnie Wright, assistant matron of Fanny Doane home at Granville, was fatally burned when her dress caught fire from an open gas grate. The upper part of her body was literally cooked. The Fanny Doane home is maintained in connection with Doane academy, Denison university.

Tractor Turns Over.

Ravenna, O., May 12.—Hollie Dutter, 39, was instantly killed when a tractor with which he was plowing turned over. Dutter leaves a wife and two sons.

BANDITS ESCAPE

Chicago, May 12.—Police have found no trace of the bandits who dashed up to the village postoffice at Indiana Harbor, Ind., in an automobile, covered five postoffice employees with pistols, snatched four registered pouches of mail and escaped with cash estimated at $35,000. The mail fled toward Chicago. The principal loot consisted of two parcels of currency consigned by the federal reserve bank here to the United States National bank at Indiana Harbor and intended to meet factory payrolls. As the truck containing the mail arrived at the rear of the postoffice from the station where the mail had been put off a Pennsylvania train, the bandits leaped from their machines with drawn pistols. Postoffice employees were frightened into submission.

TAX BILL GOES TO CONFERENCE

Embodies Democratic Substitute for Mellon Plan.

DIFFERENCES TO BE ADJUSTED

Republican Leaders of the Opinion That the President Will Veto the Measure If It Is Not Transformed by the Conferees—Chairman Smoot Sees Deficit as a Result of the Senate's Remodeling of the Bill.

Washington, May 12.—The revenue bill, incorporating the Democratic tax reduction program, passed by the senate Saturday, was sent to conference today for adjustment of differences with the house.

The bill provides generally for a 25 per cent reduction in income taxes payable this year; a 50 per cent permanent cut in the taxes on incomes; the maximum surtax rate to be cut from 50 per cent, and a 25 per cent reduction on earned incomes up to $10,000.

If the measure is not transformed in conference Republican organization leaders in the senate expect President Coolidge to veto the bill, as it has been charged of almost every vice of the Mellon plan. Chairman Smoot of the finance committee declared the senate in remodeling the bill had cut taxes by $111,450,000 beyond the reduction recommended by the committee, and that as a result, "instead of a $50,000,000 treasury deficit next year under its operation, the government faces a $161,000,000 deficit which will be increased to $475,000,000 if the pending extra appropriation bills become law."

Senators are of the opinion that it will take two weeks for the house and senate conferees to reach an agreement.

The revenue bill passed the senate by a vote of 69 to 45. In the final vote Senator Willis of Ohio supported the bill, while Senator Fess voted against it. Willis said: "I am not satisfied with the tax bill. I favor the Mellon plan of tax reduction and voted for it whenever there was opportunity. Failing in securing the adoption of the Mellon plan, I did not feel justified in voting against tax reduction, even though in an unsatisfactory form. This bill contains many unsound and undesirable provisions. The only way to get these provisions eliminated was to get the bill into conference in the hope that the conferees will report out a better bill than was passed by either house originally."

GIRL WIFE HELD

Said to Have Admitted Placing Poison in Husband's Coffee.

Barlow, Fla., May 12.—Mrs. Daisy Milton, 14, is a prisoner in the Polk county jail here, where she is held under a murder charge, following her arrest and confession to Sheriff John Logan that she slipped a bichloride of mercury tablet into her young husband's coffee, "just to make him sick," and from the effects of which Milton died a few days ago. The girl wife told officers they had only been married two months. About 10 days ago a violent quarrel arose between them, Milton accusing his wife of receiving attentions from another man. This was untrue, she told the sheriff. "My husband threatened to kill me," the girl related. "I could not read very well, and I thought the tablet was medicine and I had no idea it would kill him."

WETS PLAN CAMPAIGN

Would Add 75 Men to the Present Force in the House.

Washington, May 12.—W. H. Stayton, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, announced plans for a campaign to "add at least 75 men to the present wet force in the house of representatives." He said the association also would help all of the present wet members of both the senate and house to retain their places in congress. A campaign committee of 25 has been selected to work in the interests of the candidates who favor modification of the Volstead law. G. C. Hinckley, national secretary of the association, soon will "start out for the western part of New York state, where he will take an active part in the political campaigns of the wet candidates." Stayton continued: "From New York Mr. Hinckley will proceed to northwestern Ohio, where he will participate in campaigns in certain congressional districts now represented by dries."

Beauty Contests Condemned.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 12.—A resolution denouncing beauty pageants was adopted by the New Jersey Federation of Women's clubs after an expression of approval from a sponsor of the annual Atlantic City pageant. The resolution deplores the so-called beauty shows, pageants, revues and contests in any manner which constitutes a menace to the higher ideals of womanhood. It was agreed to bring the matter before the annual meeting in Los Angeles.

Rubber Land in Philippines.

Washington, May 12.—Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture announced that department experts have located tracts of land in the Philippines with soil well adapted for rubber plantations. The experts, working under a $500,000 appropriation by congress, have been searching for the last year in the Philippines and in South and Central America for means of developing new sources of crude rubber to make the United States independent of British colonial and other foreign producers who now furnish about 90 per cent of the world's supply. The lands located by the government's investigators are on Mindanao, an island about the size of Indiana, and on adjacent smaller islands in the Philippines.

MAN TAKES WATER FROM MANY RIVERS

People Gather Together All Sorts of Freakish Objects.

You can understand a person collecting china or coins or stamps or snuff boxes. These are objects of beauty, or, at any rate, of interest. Birds' eggs, butterflies or beetles form interesting collections and teach natural history, while such objects as playing cards, fans, mezzotints or enamels have at least historic interest.

But of late years many people have abandoned the more ordinary forms of collecting in favor of gathering together all sorts of freakish objects which do not appear to have either beauty or intrinsic value, and the gathering of which at much expense both of time and money looks like sheer waste of both these commodities.

For instance, in a daily paper certain individuals have been boasting of their collections of match boxes, one correspondent declaring that he has over 300 different specimens.

No doubt the collection gives him a certain amount of pleasure, but what will his heirs think of it? Would any museum say "thank you" for it?

But the collector of match boxes shows more discrimination than the man who has spent half a lifetime and goodness knows how much money in traveling all over the world and collecting water from each river he comes across.

Out of each stream he takes a sample in a small bottle, which is then sealed and labeled. He has already hundreds of these bottles, and the number constantly grows.

A hobby that is worse than useless is the collection of title pages. This is a form of curio hunting of considerable antiquity, and is the reason why so many early-printed books lack their title pages. Thousands of the rarest books have been mutilated in this way, the classical authors suffering more than others for the reason that their title pages were so often fine steel plates.

Eye-glasses, unless they are suited to your own sight, are singularly useless things (says a writer in John of London's Weekly), yet these form the subject of several collections. The late queen of Denmark used to collect them.

Many people specialize in black museums on a small scale; relics of famous crimes, pieces of rope with which famous criminals have been executed and the like. To some minds these possess a certain morbid interest.

A well-known singer has a small collection of pens with which reprobates have been signed, and the king of Spain has a collection of relics of his own numerous escapes from death or injury. These vary from the teat of a feeding bottle used in an attempt to poison him when a baby, to the skeleton of one of the horses killed by a bomb flung at him on his wedding day. —London Tit-Bits.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

RADIO STATION IS USEFUL TO LEGION

Official use of the radio as a means of communication with American Legion members was forecast almost a year ago, but the organization has just begun this means of disseminating Legion news and views to its membership and to the general public.

On March 30, National Commander John R. Quinn formally opened Legion use of the radio at station WTAS, Elgin, Ill., as official station for the Legion. The station is owned by Charles E. Erbstein, a Chicago attorney, and is located at his summer home. Broadcasting is done on a 250 meter wave length, which permits it to be heard in all sections of the country.

Commander Quinn spoke on the policies of the Legion, enunciating the accomplishments of the organization for the disabled, its plans for welfare of children orphaned by the World war and its fight against radicalism. Word was received by telegraph from 25 states that the Legion message had been heard through the air.

The program is to be continued on each Sunday afternoon and on Tuesday nights. On these occasions, some one of the Legion's orators will speak on certain phases of Legion activity and musical programs furnished by Legion vocalists, glee clubs, instrumentalists, orchestras, and bands will be heard.

Mr. Erbstein's interest in the treatment and care of the disabled, and his feeling toward success of the Legion's aims are responsible for the preferring of his station.

Use of this station, if successful, opens a way of communication for the Legion that will be unlimited, and it is not impossible that the organization will soon own and operate its own station from national headquarters.

To Probe Cases of Men in Penal Institutions

The survey was authorized by the national organization following disclosures in Wisconsin that a large percent of ex-service men confined in the penitentiaries were sufferers from mental derangement, and were confined in ordinary institutions, not receiving treatment for this disability.

This survey was instigated by Governor Blaine of Wisconsin on suggestion of F. Ryan Duffy, now national vice commander of the Legion, and called national attention to the problem. Immediately surveys under direction of the Legion were started in half a dozen states, with the result that many former service men are now receiving treatment for some disability incurred in war.

In Massachusetts where the survey was ordered by Department Commander Clarence R. Edwards, it has been determined that there are 400 veterans now at Deer Island, a number of whom may be transferred to some institution for treatment. Department Commander A. E. Ball of Indiana has arranged to make the survey in his state one of the most comprehensive yet attempted, as the case of every ex-service man found in prison will be reviewed in attempts to settle claims and pay adjustments.

Intensive Treatment of Civic Questions

A bureau to provide intensive treatment of the civic and community questions affecting the American Legion has been made a part of the activities of national headquarters of the organization.

The work will be under direct charge of the Americanism commission of the Legion, and will immediately begin extension of the work among the 11,000 posts and 7,000 units of the organization scattered throughout the nation and in several foreign countries.

Aid and direction will be given posts in development of their towns and cities, of playground and recreational work, wider use of the schools as community centers, formation of boy and girl scout troops, and in every other constructive activity for community improvement. This work was authorized by an addition to the Americanism program passed at the San Francisco convention of the organization.

"Your Post and Your Town" is the title of a booklet which will be issued by the Americanism commission, and which is designed, not as a manual of procedure, but as examples of the successes and failures of other Legion groups.

Four Loves That Figure in Every Human Life

The psycho-analyst tries to make you believe that you are not full grown, unless you have grown beyond and discontinued to a large extent the expression of the loves of the first three love periods of your life. These three loves are the reverential love, the chumship love and the mating love.

On the other hand, I would have you continue these loves; cultivate them; continually express them, and giving each its proper place, secure a balance and harmony of all the loves.

I am not sympathetic with the assumption and usual practice of psycho-analysis. It is fascinating but as wrongly conceived as "English as she is spoke." It is fascinating because it is mainly concerned in taking a human soul apart to find out how it works, much as a little boy takes apart a clock to find out how it runs.

What we need is much less psycho-analysis and more—oh, very much more—soul synthesis.

There are four distinctive loves in the life of every normal human being.

First, the reverential love, which begins with the love of the child for its parents.

Third, the mating love, which begins with the dawn of maturing sex.

Fourth, the parental love, which begins with desire for children and continues as the basic love of family life.

Each of these begins at a different period of the individual's life. The first fundamental mistake of the psycho-analysts is this: They consider the period in which each of the loves begins as the determinant of love itself. —Brown Landone in Nautilus.

"Duck Boards" Butler

Gen. Smedley Butler, the marine commander who recently cleaned up Philadelphia, has a personality which naturally fastens descriptive nicknames on him. "Old Gimlet Eyes" is what Quaker city police call him, but "Duck Boards" Butler, an appellation that grew out of the war, is more popular with his own "soldiers of the sea."

"Duck boards" is the British name for the narrow, wooden walks constructed over mud at the bottom of trenches and along army camp paths. The boards are generally nailed about six inches apart on sleepers, and, while they are effective in keeping one out of the mud, the pedestrian must watch his step.

In the spring of 1919 the marine camp was at Port Anezen, near Brest. It was a veritable sea of mud. The war was over and the men were impatient to get home and resented their daily task of building more duck-board walks. Realizing the marines' discontent and knowing that embarkation was some distance in the future,

General Butler decided to bolster up morale by a practical example. One Sunday morning, donning an old uniform and rubber boots, he took a hatchet and a shovel and worked all day with his soldiers building duck-board walks.

From that day General Butler has been known among the rank and file as "Old Duck Boards."

Many Languages in India

There are many races in India, and the individuals are as different as a German is from a Frenchman, and as easy to recognize as belonging to different races, says Asia Magazine.

Some women wear skirts, some wear trousers. Some men wear trousers, some wear skirts. And some wear neither skirts nor trousers. They simply wear a piece of cloth wound about their bodies.

As different and numerous as are their costumes, religions, customs and races, so are the languages.

The official census records 220 different dialects. It also shows that over 100 different languages are spoken in India. These are not dialects. They are absolutely differing tongues—as different as English and French. And all these more than five-score languages are spoken in one country.

Feminine Independence

Out on the Post golf course at Camp Logan recently, an eminent divine and his wife were valiantly racing and chasing the little white ball. The lady drove with vigor, missed—and said a naughty word.

"Tut, tut, my dear!" expostulated the churchman.

"Tut, tut," hell—hell—hello," faltered the wife, "I'm doing the golfing and I'll tend to my own cussing." —Houston Post.

Women More Careful Sex

According to reports of the London police department, only a third of the traffic victims in that city are women. Even the provincial women visitors, say the police, are more careful of their personal safety than men. The department intends to start a campaign to educate men to look after themselves when away from home.

Gulf Stream.

The current of water through the ocean, which is commonly called the Gulf stream, is of varying width at different points. Its width, according to the conditions that influence it, may vary from 45 to 100 miles, and its course also varies slightly from time to time. In popular usage the name is often applied not only to designate the Gulf stream proper, but much of the oceanic drift of the north Atlantic.

Kitty's Airplane.

Caroline, my four-year-old sister, having seen a few airplanes lately and knowing how they sound from a distance, said one evening: "Daddy, do you know our little kittle has an airplane inside of him?" "Why?" asked daddy. "Because," answered Caroline, "every time I hold him on my lap, I can hear it going." —Exchange.

MOUNT M'KINLEY IS SINKING INTO EARTH
Alaska Residents Say Peak Drops Two Feet Annually.
McKinley Park, Alaska.—Tradition has it that Mount McKinley, the loftiest peak on the American continent, sinks about two feet a year from its official altitude of 20,300.
Residents of the region are convinced this happens. They point out there is an average of four earthquake shocks a year, and contend the mountain settles about six inches with each tremor.
By way of attempted confirmation, they refer to the Aleutian Islands.
According to recent reports from scientific sources, no one can state the location or altitude of many of the small islands in the Aleutian archipelago. One day an island may appear well above water and the next day it may have vanished.
Numerous small islands, including Bogoslov, are reported to have disappeared without a trace. Bogoslov is recalled as the island which suddenly appeared while the crew of the coast guard cutter Bear looked on, in 1906.
For these topographical freaks the blame is placed on Mount Katmai and Pavaloff volcanoes, which intermittently send out dense clouds of smoke and flame.

Cyanide Gas Is Used to Rout Rats in Portland
Portland, Ore.—Cyanide gas is routing the enemy in Portland's campaign against rats.
H. S. Speer, commander-in-chief of the land and sea forces in the rat campaign, has driven the pests from their chief breeding places, the incinerator dumps and the fills in Dunway park and Alameda.
William G. Halber, superintendent of garbage disposal, has reported that there was not a rat left in the dump or fills, where four years ago the city expended at one time $360 on poison without effect.
"We must still be on our guard here," says Mr. Speer, "because occasionally a rat jumps from a garbage truck. Householders must learn to keep covers on their garbage cans. And the residents of South Portland must learn not to throw refuse in the gullies."
"We have splendid co-operation from Capt. Jacob Speier, the harbor-master, and from the dock commission. We have worked together to make our terminals rat-proof. An evidence of our effective effort came in our finding sacks of flour in terminal No. 1 untouched by rats after the fourth night in the same location.
"We are responding to a good many requests from residences. We applied the cyanide gas, from the tank which I carry on my back, to one of five rat holes on a lawn and found the gas puffed out from the four other holes. The owner of the home reported the next week that there had been no further sign of rats on the lawn."

Girl Recovers Following Operation on Her Heart
Baltimore, Md.—An operation on the human heart apparently successful in every way, and in which the organ was actually bared by the surgeon's knife, was described at the meeting of the American Surgical association here recently by Dr. Elliott C. Cutler of Harvard Medical school, who performed it. He told of having inserted his finger in an orifice in the heart to cure a valvular disease and that the patient is still living, eleven months later, and improved.
Doctor Cutler said that the patient was a fourteen-year-old girl. One of the orifices of her heart was so small that it was impossible for the organ to function. The child was threatened with death because of this situation.
The sack in which the heart is inclosed was opened. The organ itself was exposed. While it beat, the delicate operation of opening the orifice was performed. The sack was closed and the patient slowly recovered.

Woman Keeps Record on Top-of-the-World Weather
Seattle, Wash.—Daily weather observations in the land of the midnight sun, as the United States' farthest north weather station, at Point Barrow, Alaska, are made by a woman.
Four or five times a year she sends a report to the outside world by dog team, coast guard cutter or trading schooner.
The forward recorder is Mrs. Mollie Ward Greist, wife of the surgeon in charge of the Presbyterian hospital at Point Barrow. She has been the government's top-of-the-world weather observer since 1920.

Bears 11 Tailless Pups
Silverton, Ore.—Patsy, a spaniel at the Hague kennels, has given birth to 11 bobbed-tailed pups. She is herself of the clipped-tail variety. If dogs are to be tailless, why bother with tails in the beginning? Not a one of the 11 pups was born with a tail. So far interviews with dog fanciers have not revealed a similar case in dog history.

Goes Blind Through Study

Mummies Don't Last
Many persons are curious to know what a mummy looks like after it is unwrapped. Recently at the Cleveland Museum of Art a mummy case which had been on exhibition since 1914 was opened and the numerous bandages covering the remains were unwound. Nothing was found inside but a skeleton and some cheap blue porcelain beads that had evidently once formed a string. Not only the flesh had disappeared but time had disintegrated the bones. There was a strong odor of balsam. The mummy was that of Senbi, a king's scribe, who died in the Twelfth Egyptian dynasty, some four thousand years ago. It was found in Egypt. Senbi was of mixed Egyptian and Asiatic blood and died about the age of thirty-five.

African "Conjuring"
On the west coast of Africa natives of the "bush" claim to have two souls. One animates the person's human body, the other takes on the "were (wer) shape," by means of a magic draft handed down through the ages. In that land evil spirits lurk in the rocks, trees and the rivers. Here the Goddess Nimm (great oval-shaped rock in a river) keeps her vigil and doles out revenge or help to the supplicant at her shrine. Sixty per cent of the deaths in West Africa are believed to be due to witchcraft or sorcery. From these ancestors our southern negro inherits his belief in the power of the voodoo, and his "conjuring" practices are a direct throwback to the "bush" folk.—New York Times.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

HERRICK DRY AIR SYSTEM REFRIGERATOR

The Big Difference In Refrigerators
The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.
The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.
And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.
Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—
No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
No. 2. Effective insulation.
No. 3. Air-tight construction.
That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.
Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

PROMINENT MAN TAKEN

Edward E. Smith Died at Mt. Carmel Hospital Following Operation.

Death Resulted From Collapse of Weakened Heart—Was President of Citizen Telephone Company Since Its Organization in 1900.

Edward E. Smith, of 921 South Court street, died at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, at two o'clock this morning. Mr. Smith had been at the hospital since the first of this month, where he had been undergoing treatment for bladder trouble.

An operation was performed last Friday by Dr. Charles S. Hamilton. Mr. Smith rallied nicely and it was thought the day following the operation that he would make a recovery, but he grew worse Sunday and his death resulted from the collapse of a weakened heart.

The deceased was born in this city April 8, 1865, and was a son of Edward and Sarah A. Lynch Smith. He married Miss Julia E. Corcoran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Corcoran, January 14, 1902. His wife two daughters and three sons survive. They are Misses Evangela and Katherine Smith and Robert, Eugene and Fred Smith.

Of his immediate family there are living two brothers, Joseph S. Smith and James I. Smith, of this city.

Mr. Smith had been prominent in business affairs of this city for a number of years and his sudden death was a shock to the community. He was devoted to his family and was a good business man, reliable and trustworthy, and had the respect of his business associates.

He was identified with the Citizens Telephone company and was one of its original stockholders and had been its efficient president since the company was organized in 1900.

When the Ohio Cereal company was organized he became its treasurer and was also treasurer of the Esmeralda Canning company. He was known as a safe man among his business associates.

After taking a common school course, he spent four years at the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, and after leaving school he was interested with his father in the broom corn industry for seven years and later engaged in farming, milling and the canning industry.

The funeral services will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. S. Hannan will officiate. Interment will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

BOXING CONTEST

Big Card Has Been Arranged for Friday Evening at Armory.

Ever since the first Boxing contest was staged by the Armory Athletic club about two weeks ago, there has been agitation for more. Queries were heard on every side "When will the next fight be?" "Who's going to scrap this time?" "Has the card been arranged yet?" These, and similar inquiries betrayed the interest in the fights that is seething in the fans of this locality, as well as their great satisfaction in the former entertainment. It was impossible to deny them, even had the promoters desired to do so and so another and even better program has been made out and will be presented next Friday evening at the state armory.

The card is being well advertised, and it certainly appears to be a good one. Waldo Patterson, the Columbus boy who scored big with local fans at the last bout, appears this time in the main event against Al Leiber, of Portsmouth. The Frankie Wells challenged, issued and accepted by Soldier Mellow of Columbus at the former show, will be decided this time in the eighth round semi-final. A return engagement of Joe Monoco, with out own Carl Thomas is promised for the second bout, and the eye-opener will be staged by Battling Toles of this city and K. O. Barksdale, a good colored heavy from Columbus.

Diversified Decoration.

William was leading the way to where he kept his rabbits. The visitors followed and finally reached the rabbit house, where they stopped to admire the little white, gray, and black-spotted rabbits. "Look," William exclaimed, pointing to the rabbits, "they are all decorated differently, aren't they?"

The historical accuracy of the motion picture presentation of the colonization of Jamestown, an important event in American history as it is presented in the Pathe picture, "Jamestown" is guaranteed by the painstaking work of a number of distinguished historians. This is the second subject of the Chronicles of America films produced by Yale university Press under supervision of the Councils' Committee on Publications of Yale university.
An exact replica of Jamestown, the first permanent English colony in America, was erected. The buildings were even finished on the inside, so that all exterior scenes were staged in the buildings where the action was supposed to take place. H. A. Ogden, the famous historical artist, designed the costumes. Not only was great care exercised in the designs of the costumes, but correct colors were used when making them.
The story told in "Jamestown" is the menace to those brave early English settlers by the Indians and by starvation and disease. It also shows the abduction of Pocahontas, the lovely Indian maiden who was "the delight and darling" of her father, King Powhatan, and finally her marriage to Captain John Rolfe. Dolores Cassinelli portrays Pocahontas and Leslie Austin is Rolfe. "Jamestown" was directed by Edwin L. Hollywood and will be shown Monday at the Metropolitan theater.

OPERATES WITH
Surgeon Performs Bloodless
Operation in Chicago.
Radio moved its tubes and condensers, its variable couplers, and its crazy-quilt vocabulary into a white tiled operating room at the Alexian Brothers' hospital in Chicago recently, claimed the knife from the rubber-gloved hand of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, and demonstrated the newest in surgical technique—the bloodless operation.
Two major operations—and the only sharp instrument used was the needle for sewing up the wound. Radio—high frequency waves like those that clog the ether every night, but this time caught and narrowed to a steel point a third as large as a pencil—radio was the answer. No stunt affair of jazz broadcast for fabled hospital nerves, but cases of life consequence to the patients.
Knife Looks Like Needle.
In the opinion of surgeons, the "radio knife," which is not a knife but looks more like a knitting needle, may cause a small revolution in the operative treatment of certain diseases. By its inventors it is claimed as one of the most successful means of excising cancerous growths. The child's toy and grown man's hobby of today, they say, may hark back to the "S O S" that first flashed from a ship at sea, and becomes again a savior of humanity.
In the simplest of language, as explained by W. H. Dodge, representative of the laboratory that perfected the new device, a low-power radio transmitting set is used to generate the current. The "knife" forms one terminal. The other is applied to the patient. The human tissue offers resistance to the passage of the current when the knife is applied. The resistance causes heat. The knife burns itself through skin, fat and muscle as quickly and without the necessity of pressure, as though one were cutting soft butter.
Heat Seals Tissue.
More technically, the set is equipped with two 40-watt power tubes and condensers. The current oscillates at the rate of 40,000 cycles per second. The tension is 800 volts at 450 milliamperes. The heat developed, though it has not yet been accurately measured, is great enough to fuse brass.
The new knife, as Doctor Schmidt and his assistant, Dr. A. J. Wochinski, used it, seared the tissue for only a depth of perhaps a thirty-second of an inch on either side of the wound. It is the searing which makes the operation practically bloodless. It is the searing which is sought in certain operations for cancer, in the hope that it will seal in cancer cells which otherwise might run through the blood and lymph streams.
Doctor Schmidt operated on two men with cancer of the bladder, but the blood might have been caught in a few tablespoons.

Delicate Work Possible.
Beside the operating table stood a cabinet closely resembling the receiving set of the ordinary radio. In his hand the surgeon held the "knife," set in a rubber handle, a cord leading from it to the cabinet. Another cord is attached to a sheet of tinfoil on which the patient lies.
"Very delicate operations are possible with this new instrument," declared Doctor Schmidt after the second patient had been wheeled away. "It will by no means replace the surgeon's knife, and it is too early to make any predictions for its ultimate success, but from present evidence it will be an extremely valuable addition to the list of surgical instruments."
And here is another notable thing: Radio fans within a score, perhaps a hundred, miles of this new machine will hear a strange, wild, new static every time the "knife" is used.

Bachelors' Fortress
Capitulates to Women
The greatest masculine stronghold of St. Louis, the $2,000,000 bachelors' hotel—the Coronado—opened only four months ago, has capitulated to the fair sex and in future will admit women.
The passing of "No Woman's Land," as the seven-story exclusive bachelors' haven was dubbed, may be charged to the inconsistency of the unattached male himself, according to P. J. Bradshaw, millionaire architect and owner of the building.
"All the walling of men that they want to be left alone and not bothered by women is pure bunk," Mr. Bradshaw contended after a 120-day attempt to operate the Coronado on a "for men only" basis.
"St. Louis apparently isn't big enough to support an exclusive bachelors' hotel," the manager of the hotel explained as he announced that 15 women were moving into the Coronado recently.
As a result of the decision to admit both men and women to the Coronado it was necessary to contract for a $75,000 ballroom, which will be finished by next fall, the manager said.

CAR HITS TRUCK
Scott Radcliffe is Mt. Carmel Hospital With Fractured Rib.
Scott Radcliffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Radcliffe, of Columbus, formerly of this county and Mack Fossler of near Harrisburg, were injured Saturday afternoon at Briggsdale, near Columbus, when a state highway truck driven by Mr. Radcliffe was struck by an Ohio Electric car, with Mr. Fossler, as motorman.
Mr. Radcliffe is in Mt. Carmel hospital with a fractured left arm and is bruised about the body. Attending physicians at Mt. Carmel declare, however, that his injuries are not serious. The motorman, who is reported as not seriously hurt, was taken to his home in one of the company's buses.
It is said that the driver of the truck, which was loaded with gravel drove onto the tracks at the crossing, not seeing or hearing the car. The car, according to spectators of the accident, was about 25 feet away when Radcliffe started across the track.
The impact of the car against the loaded truck completely demolished the front vestibule. Gravel was thrown by the impact into the car. Most of the injuries suffered by the motorman were from flying glass. A telephone pole erected near the track was broken.
The front end of the track was completely wrecked, indicating that the interurban car struck it almost as soon as it reached the track.
Altho there were a number of passengers in the car, which was carrying an extra passenger car as a trailer to bring back spectators from Beulah park races, none suffered injuries.

Crocodile's Record Swim.
How far can a crocodile swim? Perhaps it would be more practical to ask how far crocodiles do swim? J. Stanley Gardiner claims the record for a crocodile (Crocodilus porosus) that recently landed in the Fiji Islands, where he took its photograph. No crocodiles of this species inhabit the Fiji Islands, and the nearest spot where they are known to live is the New Hebrides, 683 miles distant. Therefore, this crocodile must have swam 683 miles in the open sea.

Mississippi's Vagaries

The Mississippi river commission says that according to the latest survey the widest point on the Mississippi river at the bank, full stage, was found 77 miles below Cairo, Ill., where the river was 14,420 feet across. It is narrowest near its source, being less than 50 feet between Lake Itasca and Minneapolis.

Moon and the Tides

The highest tides occur when the attractions of the sun and the moon act in unison. The moon, being closer to the earth than the sun, has the strongest attraction or "pulling power," but the sun pulls the water also, and it is when they pull together in the same direction that the highest tides occur.

Vishnu

In Hindu mythology Vishnu is the second god of the "trimurti," or trinity, in which he figures as the preserver of the universe. His friendship for man was manifested in his avatars, or incarnations, which according to some authorities number ten, and according to others twenty-two. Of these avatars the two principal ones were the seventh, as Rama, the hero of the Ramayana, and the eighth, as Krishna, the hero of the Mahabharata. Vishnu is generally represented as a dark-blue man, having four arms, and is worshiped chiefly by the middle classes. He originally figured as a sun-god in the oldest Vedas, but gradually increased in importance until in the later Purana he became the supreme deity.—Kansas City Star.

Neckwear an Aid to Milady's SuitDecoration Will Serve in Different Ways to Beautify Garments.

Two types of neckwear accompany the spring clothes and they represent diametrically divergent influences, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. There are the severe and mannish effects that emphasize the trim tailleur and there are the frilly feminine affairs that counteract the O'Rossen inspired rigidity of style.

In the first classification fall all the stiff organdie and plain-edged linen sets that suggest outdoor life. There are innumerable vestees with edges bound in bright colored material—orange, Chinese red, or the new soft blues—with little square buttons to match. One model shows a double collar, the under one of plain white organdie edged with blue and the upper being of white linen with a blue crossbar stitch. Then there is a white vestee of lawn with a narrow front panel edged with salmon pink and pink flowers worked on the round collar. Cuffs are to be found with many of these sets, which are appropriate for either the tailored suit or the sweater and plaited skirt.

A deep cafe-au-lait color characterizes many of the lace sets. And there is no limit to the ingenious combinations of contrasting laces. A novelty is an oblong panel attached to a round collar which may be worn either with a suit, the sides being tucked away from view, or on a frock, the whole panel showing the color of the dress through its delicate texture.

A similar line of division runs through the new high-collared models which may be completely feminine or severely masculine. On the one side there is the rigid stock of pique or linen and on the other a high collar of lace supporting a jabot. Jabots are much in evidence everywhere, as are buttons and many other details of finishing, such as fagoting and tiny ruffles. All of which combine to make the spring neckwear unusually effective.

Variety of Neckwear to Beautify Her Frock

The feature of neckwear has developed into an enormous industry. White things, collars and cuffs, chemisettes, tuckers, ruffling by the yard, all alluring because of their dainty freshness and flattery, have been augmented by an enormous assortment of novelties of another and wholly different sort.

The colored needlework that came in when our interest in foreign folk was quickened is now reproduced in neckwear. Round collars, square and bateau-shaped collars, usually with cuffs to match, embroidered in peasant design and color, are sold in sets. Waistcoats of tailored cottons and linens and underblouse of crepe de chine, muslin or lace are to be had for the tailored suits, and millions of yards of figured georgette in many colors and new patterns finely plaited are sold for fichus and neck frills on the popular one-piece frocks.

Fancy Hatpins Still Have Chance to Serve

Ever so long ago, it seems, hatpins were intended to serve a single purpose, that being to pin the hat to the hair so it would not blow off. After they came to be a real fashion note, something to be reckoned as ornamental as well as serviceable, hatpins grew into artistic achievements. The fashion of bobbing the hair made the hatpin more or less a drug on the market. But lately some unique and very pretty pins are shown, and are apparently in demand among those whose locks are still attached to their natural moorings. Some of the new pins have beautifully jeweled tops. Others are done in enamel or heavily chased

Pearls in History

Few jewels have played a more conspicuous part in history than the pearl. Pliny thought it was a drop of dew swallowed by the oyster, while the American savage believed that it was made of sunbeams and petrified dew-drops. The manner in which the real jewel is born is anything but poetic. A grain of sand irritates the sensitive oyster and the mollusk proceeds to smooth it by depositing around it layer after layer of the nacre with which his shell is lined. In the South Kensington museum there is a pearl two inches deep and two and a half inches in diameter. Think of the long process and the discomfort of the creature which produced it.

Meeting With Joy

Don't wait for Joy to knock at the door, but rise up and meet him half way on the road of Life, then introduce him to all the travelers you meet and celebrate him on the hills and in the valleys that have been dreaming of him all the year long, and you'll hear bells, and the dreams of a lifetime will come true.—Atlanta Constitution.

AT THE END OF THE LONG TRAIL

By MOLLIE MATHER

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

ROSE MARY came to the dividing of the paths and stood undecided. The sunlight filtering down through heavy trees invited her onward.

"You must go away to a high altitude at once," Rose Mary's physician had said, "and you know, don't you, that you may not come back. There you will live perhaps to a good old age. But you must not try to come back."

Rose Mary already was gaining in strength and had lost her first sense of isolation. Today a strange anticipation of coming pleasure brought a flush to her rounding cheeks. There was even a thought of adventure in choosing from one of the three trails reaching out before her. Unknowing, Rose Mary chose the longest trail. Wandering on and on in silence, and when presently it occurred to her that she must be going back to the white farmhouse for the evening meal, she found that she could no longer trace the way back. Beyond the opening she might find some sign of life and seek information there. True, as she had thought, a house confronted her. Rose Mary smiled at the whimsical fancy of an olden fairy tale—where the princess, lost in the wood, comes upon an old woman's cabin. The old woman, who by her magic would bestow upon this desolate maiden her heart's desire. Rose Mary caught her breath as a very old lady stepped from the door out into a little flower garden. The young woman hastened toward her and confided her plight. The old lady was sympathetic and comforting. "Why, my dear," she said, "it would be impossible for you to go back the long trail. You shall stop with me tonight, if you please, and we will telephone your friends. Oh, yes, I have a telephone," the old lady laughed softly, "my boys saw to that when I insisted upon remaining in the old family nest, while my birdlings went out into the world to seek their fortune. I just could not be transplanted," said the old lady. "Went to visit my lawyer son one time and was so lonely for the morning song of my mountain birds, so longing for the sweet, clear air; home, dearie, you see, just home! I'd not be able to get along, perhaps, if Joey had not known the same mountain love that I do. Of all my son's friends Joey is the only one who stayed on. And Joey fits in, some way, with the scenery. Big and brave and beautiful is Joey Judson. He keeps up the home of his people so that anyone might be proud to stop there. There is Mrs. Tonsey to keep house for him and old Mr. Tousey to help with chores. Joey sees to it that they are good neighbors. He had a radio put in lately and often of an evening Joey comes to take me over to hear music. If you are not too weary tonight it might help to pass the evening to hear Joey's radio."

Joey came at evening to fetch the mother of his boyhood friends. There was a silent pact between these absent friends and Joey that the per-versely home-loving Mrs. Tudor should not lack friendship.

The blue eyes of Rose Mary widened in pleased surprise when she met Joey Judson; he was so suitably a part of the adventure, with his fine bronzed face and his winning smile. Joey made Rose Mary think of her favorite western "movie" actor. It was true, as her hostess had said—Joey fitted in with the free mountain scenery as he never could fit anywhere else.

So it happened that after the evening of music from Joey's radio, Rose Mary was prevailed upon to stay on with Mrs. Tudor. And it was Joey who drove his light cart to bring her baggage from the white farmhouse. Surely this little old lady of the wood was also weaving some magic spell. Never had Rose Mary known the joy of those sunlit mountain mornings. Joey often waiting with a saddled horse for her to ride.

She ran back on a certain morning to kiss, in the overflow of grateful affection, the happy old lady waving her adieu down the path. Joey seemed kindlier and nearer than any man who had touched Rose Mary's young life. Her cheeks glowed with new color. His dark eyes regarded her earnestly. "We will," said Joe Judson, "drive down the longest trail today, Rose Mary. I have much to talk over with you, dear." But after all, there was little left unsaid when the loving word had fallen from the man's lips. For Rose Mary knew that here, in the purity of the mountains, in the simplicity of forest ways, this one word expressed its true meaning. She was "dear" to him. And she was glad. Oh, how glad! "Rose Mary," Joey was saying, "you know of my love. But it is much I would ask of one long used to life in the cities—I would have to ask you to share my solitude, dear heart—elsewhere. I am, as some forest beast, held in bondage. Love does much—love, if you could learn the lesson, Rose Mary, might even make of the solitude a paradise." And the girl who had thought of the mountain as her exile, stretched out her hands.

"Joey, Joey," she said, "I'm so glad to stay."

Extension Activity in South Carolina

Attention Given Primarily to Poultry Assistance.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Home demonstration work in South Carolina during 1923 was marked by activity in many different fields. In almost every county attention was given primarily to assistance with poultry, as it was found that by urging the selling of high-grade chickens and fine quality eggs a more substantial sum could be added to the family income than in any other way. This work led in turn to the encouragement and support of the club markets in various counties, which have been a noteworthy feature in South Carolina for several years past. With an increase in returns for their products, many of the women were able to put improvements into their homes which they had previously lacked, and while no general or county contests in household improvements were held, practically every one of the 35 home demonstration agents' reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture mentions a number of advantageous changes or additions to equipment.

Among the girls' clubs there were, however, a great many community and county contests, leading up to district contests. In line with the work with adults in poultry were the egg-judging contests. Sewing club work led to sewing contests, and a great many girls learned in the course of competing for a prize how to make simple garments for themselves and keep their clothes in order. Hat making instruction was especially popular. Other club contests held in many counties were biscuit making, yeast bread, and canning.

Club contests were often held at the two or three day summer camps for boys and girls. These camps were featured in almost every county. They included some instruction, as well as club demonstrations and recreational activities, and were a source of great profit to the rural young people who were able to attend them.

Big Increase Shown in Use of Milk and Cream

The American appetite for milk and cream goes on increasing. A survey recently completed by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, shows that the per capita consumption of fluid milk for 1923 was 53 gallons, which figures out to 1.16 pints daily for each person. In 1922 the per capita consumption was 50 gallons; and the year before it was 49 gallons.

The statement has often been made that farmers who produce milk for the market sell practically all of it and do not use as much in their homes as do city people. The survey showed the contrary—that on farms with producing cows more milk and cream were consumed than by city families. The farm figures were obtained from 30,000 individual farms and represent the most comprehensive survey of the kind ever made. The city figures were obtained principally from boards of health and covered 300 cities having a total population of about 25,000,000 persons.

The average daily consumption of milk and cream on farms where producing cows were kept was found to be 1.78 pints per person in 1923. On farms having no cows or on which nonproducing cows were kept, the average daily consumption was 0.775 pint. The city average was 0.87 pint.

Iowa Specialist Favors Concrete Fence Posts

Posts which have been on test in an Iowa experiment station for over eight years, made of concrete and reinforced, show practically no signs of depreciation. The tests showed that the posts made from graded aggregate, although requiring less cement, possessed greater ultimate strength than posts made from bank-run material. For most of the posts a mixture of one sack of cement to two and one-half cubic feet of bank-run gravel having an excess of fine particles was used.

One-quarter inch square twisted bars, flat bands and No. 3 wire were used as means of reinforcement. When placed in the testing machine, the quarter-inch bars proved most satisfactory. The laboratory tests also indicate the advisability of placing the reinforcing material comparatively near the surface of the post rather than near its center. From five-eighths to three-fourths of an inch from the surface is considered about right by Professor J. B. Davidson.

Farm Hints

Better seed, better crops.

Civilization is threatened when the soil is robbed.

The cost of production depends very largely upon the yield per acre.

In selecting seed, whether for herds, flocks or crops, the best is always the greatest economy.

FICKARDT'S ROUP AND CHOLERA DROPS

On May 7, 1924, I called on Elmer Doner, Ashville, R. F. D. No. 1, and he told me the following:—

I bought four hundred (400) chicks of a hatchery and while there I bought some tablets to prevent disease or cure them if they were sick. Very soon the chicks began to die. I tried the tablets that I had obtained at the hatchery. I then bought other tablets liquids and powders, all nationally advertised remedies, but none of them did any good and my chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250.

A friend of mine told me of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops, at that time I had ten sick chicks in a pen separated from the well stock and I really considered them as good as dead.

I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops with all my chicks, both well and sick. Two of the sick ones died, the other eight recovered and I have not lost any others since I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops over a month ago.

I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course if it had not been for the fact that these that were sick recovered, but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops cured them.
